Bizarre beings lurk in Devil's Triangle over New England

10-FOOT MON-
 STERS are more widespread than previously reported.

According to an investigator, the huge furry creatures — and some bizarre

• BRIDGEWATER TRIANGLE: Creature sightings

• THERE HAVE been numerous
 sightings of 'tall, furry, man-like
 creatures,' say
 scared residents

The B.T.E.T. consists of Joseph and four fellow creature-seekers, who are bound and determined to investigate the area, especially around infamous Hockomock
 Swamps, a 5,000-acre tract where, Joseph says,
 "everyone agrees something evil and strange is going on."

Joseph can recount numerous sightings of "tall, furry, man-like creatures" in Hockomock by police officers and other upstanding citizens, most of which were written off as bears even though there haven't been any bears in the region for years.

Joseph, a security guard, himself spotted a Hockomock Bigfoot in 1978.

"I saw it across a pond in the daytime," he tells SUN. "It walked like a man but real slow, like Frankenstein. I turned my head to tell my friend, then it was gone."

Joseph also claims that he and several friends
 heard "horrifying, evil, hungry" howls during a 1985 Hockomock monster
 search.

In fact, Bigfoot — or Sasquatch as the local Indians called it — isn't the only bizarre creature to supposedly have been spotted in the Bridgewater Triangle.

There have also been reports of a huge black dog; a giant black snake "as big around as a stovepipe"; prehistoric, 7-foot-tall birds with 10-foot wing-spans; a monster black panther and many types of UFOs.

Joseph admits reports of such sightings, coupled with a lack of physical evidence such as photographs for proof, raise many questions without answers.

"Why are they so rarely seen?" he asks.

"Where are their roosts or lairs?"

"Are these spiritual visions that only some people are allowed to see?"

"Why hasn't anybody been able to catch or even photograph one?"

"These questions as well as others are why I will lead my team into the Bridgewater Triangle to investigate these mysteries."

"Who do you guys holler at when I'm in school?"

"The only way to find out is to investigate. And that's just what the B.T.E.T. plans to do."

Weatherman solves a hairy problem

A TV WEATHERMAN who believed he looked better with his hairpiece, but felt better without it, decided to let his viewers decide.

Tom Mahoney, meteorologist at station WFRV in Green Bay, WI, showed a picture of himself both with and without the hairpiece he had worn on the air. He asked for viewer votes through a telephone call-in poll, and more than 3,900 callers said remove the hairpiece. Over 2,800 said leave it on. He removed it.
